ONLINE LEARNING

Our approach

Admissions and course requirements are the same for online and on-site students. Log in from anywhere in the world to learn from our world-class Johns Hopkins faculty. Take advantage of the same university resources as your on-site counterparts, in addition to specialized services designed for online learning, including academic advising and library, student, and IT services.

Students completing concentrations in financial businesses, health care management, interdisciplinary business, marketing, or leading organizations can complete all courses online. Courses feature mostly asynchronous learning activities, allowing you to complete coursework each week on a schedule that works for you. A few recommended or required synchronous learning activities occur in real time.

Residencies

Carey Business School's residencies for online courses bring together online learners from across the globe for two to three days of intensive in-person educational and social activities. Maximize the benefits of your degree through traditional classroom discussions, lectures, and networking with fellow students (both on-site and online), faculty, alumni, and business leaders.

Residencies at the Baltimore campus are required for students in the Negotiation, Business Communication, and Leadership in Organizations eight-week online courses.

EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING

Leadership, business instincts, and entrepreneurship aren't learned from a book. They are developed by doing. Put theory to work and embed yourself in local, national, and international experiential learning opportunities. Our experiential learning electives immerse you in real world situations with businesses and organizations where your work has immediate impact. Gain the experience you need to succeed in today's business world.

Leadership Development Expeditions

Develop your leadership skills through adventure expeditions in Norway and Belize. Build leadership skills and gain a deeper understanding of what it means to lead through rigorous academic inquiry into the nature of leadership, honest self-assessment, and hands on experiences in challenging outdoor environments.

EXPERIENTIAL COURSES
